French Housing Market

LENDING IS BASED ON BORROWER SOLVENCY

A cautious origination process that implies low risk characteristics of loans

- In France, home loan granting based on the borrower's disposable income (not the value and quality of the asset). The ratio of debt service to income (DSTI) must not significantly exceed 35%.
- Average DSTI has been around 30%. Average LTV at origination was 80.7 % in December 2025.
- Loans are almost always amortising, with constant repayments. More than 99% of home loans have a fixed rate until maturity. Average home loan term was 22.4 years in December 2025.
- French home loan market is largely based on guarantees provided by Crédit Logement and home loan insurance companies.
- Non-performing loans ratio for home loans is very low, at around 1%.

STRUCTURAL FUNDAMENTALS

Strong demand-side factors

- Lower rate of home ownership (61.2% of owner-occupiers in 2024) compared to EU countries (68.4%).
- Other factors support demand (divorce, moving out process, retirement planning, limited supply of rental accommodation, housing often perceived as a "safe haven" investment).
- Higher demand towards more comfortable housing (terraces, houses with gardens), due to the health crisis, and the development of work from home.

Weak supply

- Structural housing deficit in France: between 300,000 and 400,000 units to be built per year by 2030 according to different studies.
- Low level of building permits issued acts as a factor penalising the housing supply in the long run.
- Housing starts particularly low and insufficient to meet demand: linked to the scarcity of land, delays in obtaining permits.

Share of new home loans to households with a floating rate or an initial rate fixation period of up to one year (in %)

Ratio of non-performing loans / Total home loans (in %)

Housing starts and permits (in thousands)

A RESILIENT MARKET

The French market did not experience a bubble / excessive risk-taking, as seen in the US, the UK, Ireland or Spain between 1998 and 2007. The 2008-2009 recession put an end to the boom.

→ In France, the correction was limited, as prices were globally stable between 2008 and 2014, to be compared with a cumulative decline in prices of 32.2% in Ireland, 27.5% in Spain, 16.9% in the Netherlands and 14.3% in Italy. In the UK, prices dropped by 13.9% between end-2007 and end-2012.

In France, the market rebounded sharply between 2015 and 2021, with housing sales reaching record levels and prices accelerating, albeit moderately.

→ For existing homes, sales have risen sharply since the low in 2013 (658,000), surpassing the former 2006 high (841,000) as early as 2016, and reaching a record level in 2021 (1.251 million).

Prices recovered gradually between 2015 and 2019 (+2.9% p.a. on average), then accelerated (+6.8% p.a. between end 2019 and end 2021), slowing to +4.5% p.a. by end 2022.

→ For newly-built homes (developer segment), the sales jumped by 16.3% per year over 2014-2017, from 83,000 to 130,000, just above the 2007 peak. They remained stable until 2019 before starting to reduce.

Prices rose by an average of 2.9% a year between the end of 2014 and the end of 2020, before accelerating over the following two years (+5.4% a year).

In 2020-2022, the French housing market remained buoyant despite the Covid-19 pandemic. It began to correct in 2023, with rising interest rates, accelerating its necessary normalization.

→ Between 2022 and 2023, rise in home loans interest rates undermined households' ability to buy property, at a time when high inflation has eroded their purchasing power, and high geopolitical uncertainties weighed on their confidence. Home loans interest rates reached 3.6% (excl. insurance) in December 2023 (vs 1.1% two years before).

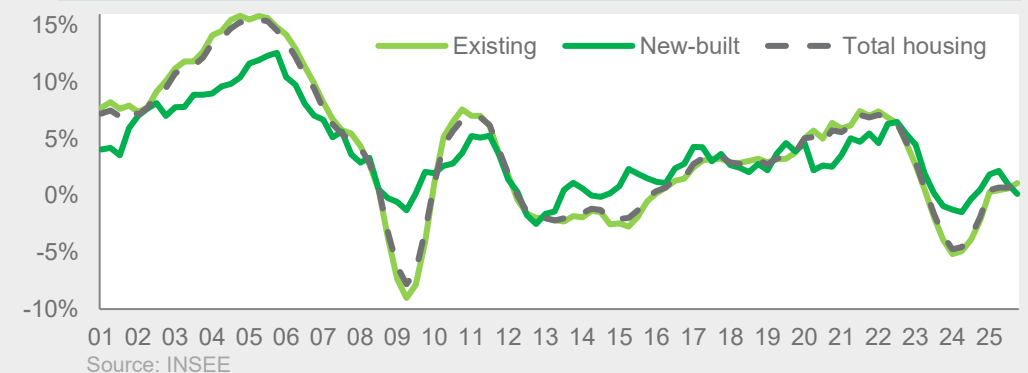

→ In 2023, sales of existing homes are higher than the 2010s average (932,000 in 2023 vs. around 840,000 in the 2010s). Prices had fallen since end-2022 (-3.9% yoy at the end of 2023).

→ 65,000 new-build homes were sold in 2023, a 36.9% drop compared to 2022. Prices were quite stable (-0.7% yoy at the end of 2023).

Home prices: average year-on-year growth (year-end, %)

France: year-on-year change in house prices (%)

ECONOMIC ENVIRONMENT FACTORS

After a decline in 2024, the residential real estate market rebounded in 2025

- The 10-year OAT has fluctuated between 2.7% and 3.6% since December 2023. Banking competition has led to a continuous decrease in mortgage rates in 2024, reaching 3.1% in December, then 3% in December 2025.
- Second-hand home market (around 80% and 90% of sales)
  - > In 2024, 845,000 second-hand homes were sold over one year, a 9.3% loss over one year (compared to 1.2 million in 2021). In 2025, 945,000 units were sold (a 11.8% rise over one year), a sign of recovery in this market.
  - > Prices had adjusted in 2023 and 2024 (-3.9% yoy in 2024). This adjustment was reinforced by price reductions agreed to by owners of energy-inefficient properties following the ban on their rental. In the Q4 2025, prices of second-hand homes rose by 1.1% compared to Q4 2024, as the rise of sales has accelerated.
- Newly-built home market
  - > In addition to the drop in demand, the newly-built market has been recently confronted with supply constraints: rising construction costs and inflation of technical standards and environmental requirements.
  - > In 2024, 61,700 newly-built homes were sold over one year, a 5.7% drop over one year. In 2025, 57,600 new homes were reserved over a one-year period. These levels are close to historic lows.
  - > Despite the decline in sales in 2024, prices remained relatively stable (+0.4% year-on-year in 2024). In 2025, prices rather stagnated (0.2%) in this segment compared to 2024.

What situation for 2026?

- Favorable macroeconomic factors (low inflation, higher gross disposable income, relatively low unemployment despite an increase) supported the recovery in existing home sales in 2025.
- In 2026, due to upward pressures on long-term interest rates and a slight rise in unemployment, sales in the existing market would remain stable. In this context, existing home prices are expected to be stable in 2026, amid an absence of sales momentum in this segment.
- The weakness in new home sales by developers would persist in 2026 despite the adoption of the Jeanbrun scheme. Indeed, its implementation would be gradual and would not fully offset the shortfall resulting from the end of the Pinel scheme.

LOW RISK PROFILE

Non-performing loans / Total home loans

Source: ACPR, Crédit Agricole S.A.

Non-performing loans coverage ratio

Source: ACPR, Crédit Agricole S.A.

Origination process relies on the borrower's repayment capability

- Borrower risk is analysed through revenues and credit history checks (3 pay slips, most recent tax statement, bank statements, Banque de France records)
- Analysis includes project features (proof of own equity, construction and work bills, etc.)
- Borrower repayment capability is measured with the income sufficiency test, which ensures that disposable income after all expenses exceeds a minimum amount, depending on the size and means of each household
- The new standards on origination introduced by the HCSF (the French macro-prudential authority) in 2021 have been gradually taken into account by the originators and should lead to an even lower risk profile overall
- In addition, credit risks are analysed before and after the granting of a guarantee

As a result, the risk profile is very low

- The rate of non-performing loans* remains low, at pre-2008 crisis levels
- The provisioning policy is traditionally very cautious, well above the French market (30% at end 2024)
- Final losses remain very low: 0.009% in 2024

Recent evolution in the business impacting the cover pool:

Despite head-winds on international trade caused by geopolitical instability, the ECA business has remained active for this asset class. After a relatively slow level of new opportunities in the first quarter, activity has picked up with transactions across several sectors and remain strong until the end of the year. Unlike in the previous years, the regular export credit volumes represented a larger share of the activity compared to the untied programs and the variety of ECAs involved was wider.

In the Aviation sector, the demand from airlines and lessors for ECA covered financings remains somewhat limited (except for a few exceptions with specific country issues) as uncovered commercial financing remains generally abundant and private insurance provides a competitive alternative to ECA financing. Pipeline for ECA financings is therefore quite limited at the moment even if it may grow more rapidly in 2026 with the Airbus and Boeing deliveries ramp up notably in the Emerging countries.

In the Rail sector, French Regions financings via SPLs (Sociétés Publiques Locales) may somewhat stagger but public train concessions financing opportunities (Germany) are still numerous.
