French Housing Market

LENDING IS BASED ON BORROWER SOLVENCY

A cautious origination process that implies low risk characteristics of loans

- In France, home loan granting based on the borrower's disposable income (not the value and quality of the asset). The ratio of debt service to income (DSTI) must not significantly exceed 35%.
- Average DSTI has been around 30%. Average LTV at origination was 78.8% in 2023.
- Loans are almost always amortising, with constant repayments. More than 99% of home loans have a fixed rate until maturity. Average home loan term was 22.3 years in 2023.
- French home loan market is largely based on guarantees provided by Crédit Logement and home loan insurance companies.
- Non-performing loans ratio for home loans is very low, at around 1%.

STRUCTURAL FUNDAMENTALS

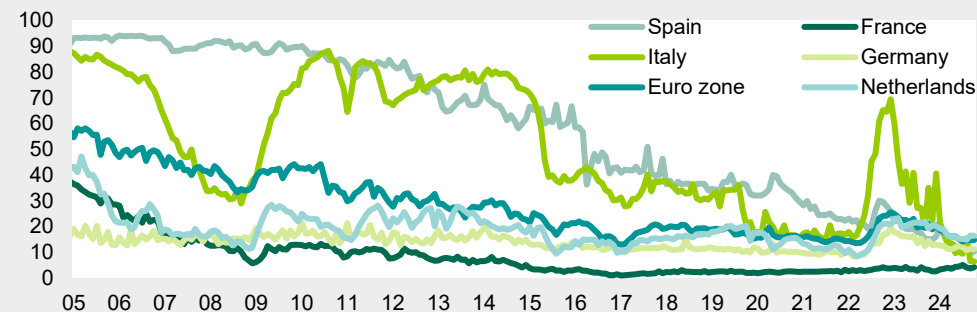

Strong demand-side factors

- Lower rate of home ownership (63% of owner-occupiers in 2023) compared to EU countries (69%).
- Other factors support demand (divorce, moving out process, retirement planning, limited supply of rental accommodation, housing often perceived as a "safe haven" investment).
- Higher demand towards more comfortable housing (terraces, houses with gardens), due to the health crisis, and the development of work from home.

Weak supply

- Structural housing deficit in France: around 400,000 units to be built per year by 2030 according to different studies.
- Low level of building permits issued acts as a factor penalising the housing supply in the long run.
- Housing starts particularly low and insufficient to meet demand: linked to the scarcity of land, delays in obtaining permits.

A RESILIENT MARKET

The French market did not experience a bubble / excessive risk-taking, as seen in the US, the UK, Ireland or Spain between 1998 and 2007. The 2008-2009 recession put an end to the boom.

→ In France, the correction was limited, as prices were globally stable between 2008 and 2014, to be compared with a cumulative decline in prices of 31% in Ireland, 27% in Spain, 17% in the Netherlands and 14% in Italy. In the UK, prices dropped by 14% between end-2007 and end-2012.

In France, the market rebounded sharply between 2015 and 2021, with housing sales reaching record levels and prices accelerating, albeit moderately.

→ For existing homes, sales have risen sharply since the low in 2014 (689,000), surpassing the former 2005 high (829,000) as early as 2016, and reaching a record level in 2021 (1.175 million).

Prices recovered gradually between 2015 and 2019 (+3% p.a. on average), then accelerated (+6.7% p.a. between end 2019 and end 2021), slowing to +4.7% p.a. by end 2022.

→ For new-built homes (developer segment), the sales jumped by 16.3% per year over 2014-2017, from 83,000 to 130,000, just above the 2007 peak. They remained stable until 2019 before starting to reduce.

Prices rose by an average of 2.9% a year between the end of 2014 and the end of 2020, before accelerating over the following two years (+5.4% a year).

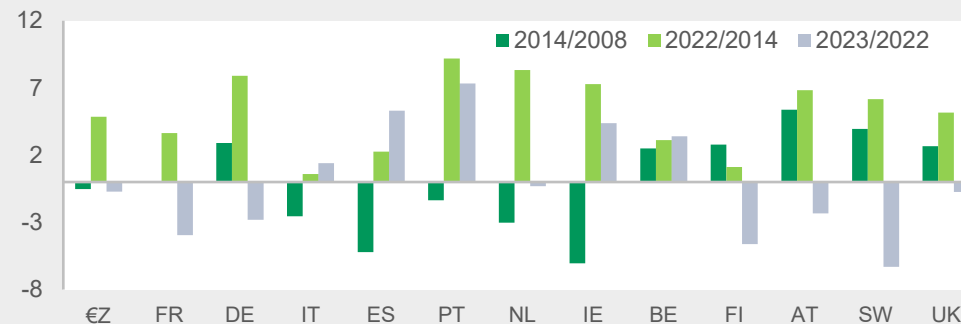

In 2020-2022, the French housing market remained buoyant despite the Covid-19 pandemic. It began to correct in 2023, with rising interest rates accelerating its necessary normalisation.

→ Between 2022 and 2023, rise in home loans interest rates undermined households' ability to buy property, at a time when high inflation has eroded their purchasing power, and high geopolitical uncertainties weighed on their confidence. Home loans interest rates reached 3.6% (excl. insurance) in December 2023.

→ In 2023, sales of existing homes lower than the 2010s average (872,000 in 2023 vs. 830,000 in the 2010s). Prices had fallen since end-2022 (-3.9% yoy at the end of 2023).

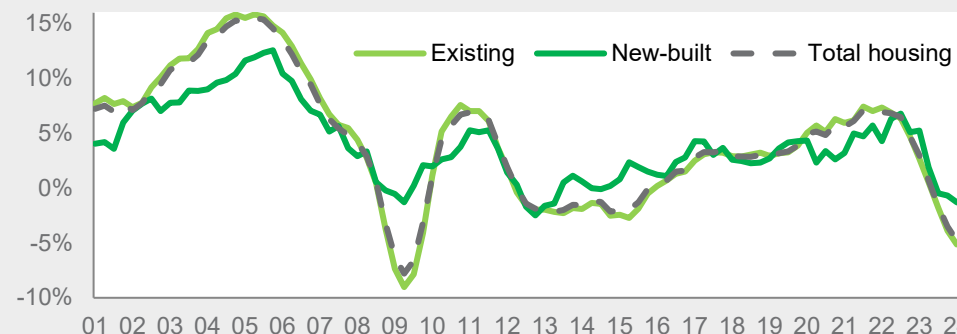

→ 65,000 new-build homes were sold in 2023, a 36.9% drop compared to 2022. Prices were quite stable (-0.7% yoy in at the end of 2023).

ECONOMIC ENVIRONMENT FACTORS

In 2024, the correction process of the housing market continued

- Waving of 10Y OAT between 2.7% and 3.2% (on monthly average) since December 2023 and competition between banks led to a continuous decline in mortgage rates in 2024, reaching 3.2% in November.
- Second-hand home market
 - > In November 2024, 778,000 second-hand homes were sold over one year, down 12% compared to November 2023 over one year (compared to 1.2 million in 2021).
 - > Prices continued to adjust on a year-on-year basis since 2023 (-4% yoy in Q3 2024). Bans on renting out low energy efficiency homes has led sellers of these types of goods to lower their prices.
- Newly-built home market
 - > In addition to the drop in demand, the new-build market has been recently confronted with supply constraints: rising construction costs and inflation of technical standards and environmental requirements.
 - > In September 2024, 52,000 newly-built homes were sold over one year (its lowest level since 1995), a 18% drop compared to September 2023 over one year.
 - > Prices only decreased by 0.5% yoy in Q3 2024.

Forecasts for 2025

- The slight fall in lending rates should continue as long-term rates are expected to oscillate between 3.1% and 3.25% in 2025 and banks will continue to compete to attract new customers.
- Favorable macroeconomic factors (disinflation, higher gross disposable income, sustainable low unemployment rate albeit a slight rise) and price adjustment by sellers should support a gradual recovery in second-hand transactions.
- Low levels of newly-built home sales would persist as the Pinel tax deduction scheme was not renewed for 2025.
- Prices of second-hand dwellings are set to rise gradually in the second-half of 2025, with a slight delay in the increase in transactions.

LOW RISK PROFILE

Non-performing loans / Total home loans

Source: ACPR, Crédit Agricole S.A.

Non-performing loans coverage ratio

Source: ACPR, Crédit Agricole S.A.

Origination process relies on the borrower's repayment capability

- Borrower risk is analysed through revenues and credit history checks (3 pay slips, most recent tax statement, bank statements, Banque de France records)
- Analysis includes project features (proof of own equity, construction and work bills, etc.)
- Borrower repayment capability is measured with the income sufficiency test, which ensures that disposable income after all expenses exceeds a minimum amount, depending on the size and means of each household
- The new standards on origination introduced by the HCSF (the French macro-prudential authority) in 2021 have been gradually taken into account by the originators and should lead to an even lower risk profile overall
- In addition, credit risks are analysed before and after the granting of a guarantee

As a result, the risk profile is very low

- The rate of non-performing loans* remains low, at pre-2008 crisis levels
- The provisioning policy is traditionally very cautious, well above the French market (34% at end 2023)
- Final losses remain very low: 0.009% in 2024

Recent evolution in the business impacting the cover pool :

Despite head-winds on international trade caused by geopolitical instability, the ECA business has remained relevant with new borrowers for this asset class. The defense sector has been particularly active, and some investments supported by ECAs and multilaterals created a flurry of transactions closing at year-end with a promising flow of activity for 2025.

In the aviation sector, a full return to normal is confirmed by IATA in 2024. We have noticed a strong appetite from airlines for ECA covered ones which can be explained by the volatility in the bond markets which has led borrowers to inter alia ECA loans to finance their investments. Regarding the Ukrainian crisis, the exposure on Russian counterparties has been very limited but has led to prepayments of the majority of the facilities, leaving us with no default and one transaction being removed from the collateral as a result. There are no exposure to Israel, Lebanon or other closer countries in the region.

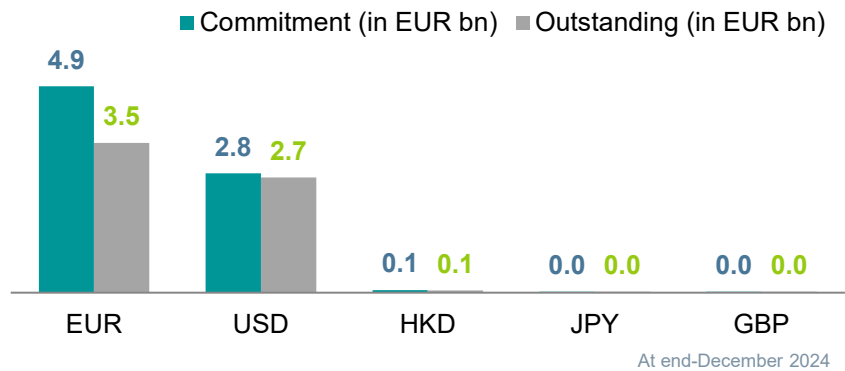

In the Rail sector, we foresee increased use by the French Regions of innovative financing structures for their rolling stock via SPLs.
